Coping with loss and grief

Grief can hurt, we can experience many strong emotions including, sadness, despair, anger, hurt, shock, numbness, denial, guilt, fear and so many more, even sometimes relief. While these feelings can cause us extreme distress, they are the natural feelings which can emerge when we lose someone or something which mattered to us.

If you find the feelings so overwhelming, you are thinking of suicide please speak to someone. The Samaritans or Crisis text line or your GP or other local health provider.

We can experience grief when a loved one dies, including the loss of a pet or miscarriage we can also experience it at other times of loss, a health challenge, retirement, leaving school, separation all can produce feelings of loss and grief.

Remember, we are all unique individuals and we each cope with loss in our own way this includes the time we are grieving, which can vary too.

Remember its okay to cry, putting a brave face on and not allowing the tears to flow when they need to, can mean we bottle feelings up which can make us feel worse. Crying at this time is natural. There are people who don't cry naturally so for them, not crying is natural too, we are all different, just because we don't cry, doesn't mean we don't care or aren't hurting.

Worrying about being alone or about money now the person has gone isn't selfish, its natural, talk to others about how you feel.

Admitting to yourself and others that you are hurting can help you to begin to work through your grief and accept kindness from others to help at this time.

Sometimes sleeping and eating can be a challenge, but its important at this time we find a way to rest and make sure we are looking after our physical body as well as our minds.

If you aren't sure if what you are experiencing is grief, or depression go and speak to your GP or other health care provider as its important at this time we also look after our mental health.

Reach out if you are feeling alone with your grief and this is a challenge for you. There can also be support groups e.g. where someone has lost someone to suicide. Sometimes having someone just to listen can be very powerful, this is a time also we may find our faith or life philosophy is a comfort.

Grieving can be a challenging time and its okay to ask for help, or, seek to understand more how you are feeling. These are some contacts maybe useful:
